

Protecting Your Storage Facility

Skill Level

Basic

Description

Storage facilities present a special fire hazard due to the types of commodities present and the variety of possible storage configurations. This course explains the hazards associated with storage conditions that can compromise the ability of sprinkler protection to control a fire.

Target Audience

This course is designed for warehouse managers, facility managers and warehouse employees responsible for protecting storage facilities and understanding the hazards associated with storing commodities.

Upon completion of this course, you will be able to:

- Describe the storage hazard
- Classify commodities
- Demonstrate proper storage arrangements
- Describe storage challenges that negatively affect sprinkler protection
