

Planning for Emergencies

Skill Level

Basic

Course Description

An emergency may catch you off guard, but it should never catch you unprepared. Planning for Emergencies is a free, interactive tutorial available exclusively to FM Global clients that identifies the steps needed to ensure proper emergency response. The course takes less than one hour to complete.

Target Audience

- Plant personnel responsible for the safe operation of their facility and risk mitigation in the event of a hazardous event
- Public fire service personnel
- Managers and/or supervisors overseeing risk management for their plants and facilities

Upon completion of this course, you should be able to understand:

- Definition of emergency response
- Hazards of improper emergency response planning
- Proper and improper methods of handling an incident
- Reasons for and benefits of emergency response planning
- “Plan” and “team” component steps of emergency response

